Getting started with these both types of website designing are

- Static website- which includes only designing concepts and is also cost-effective for establishing small business and is benefit for only catalogue showing purposes. As it includes only home page and somewhat content showable for boosting small business online by making their official website at all. This includes HTML/CSS designing concepts only without any development and it really needs a stunning website designer to hold in with as it doesn't includes database and any server function. So, getting this type of website designing will really effects your business but on a small rate.
- Dynamic website- which includes designing and development both he concepts and is so costly that a large businessman can only afford it, but vismaadlabs provide these services at a great affordable rate and this type of website designing and development is really having as much internal pages as you can or want to establish and also having it's inner products, about and contact page for your and user's convenience. This includes HTML/CSS/J Query/ JavaScript and also PHP at last of all, PHP is being used for development and all others are used for designing issues for making a website. As this type of website designing both includes designing as well as development, that are why it is costly of all as it includes inserting various functionalities according to your search and also various designs can be inserted in it according to your choice.
